Paediatric Cancer in Sri Lanka

Cancer is one of four diseases that causes approximately 65% of all deaths in Sri Lanka. Although the paediatric cancer cases here are rare, authorities admit that the numbers are growing. Apeksha Hospital Maharagama, which was established in 1958 is Sri Lanka's premier institute for Cancer treatment, as well as the only specialized paediatric cancer management facility available in Sri Lanka.

The annual new patient load at Apeksha Hospital, Maharagama is around 650, while out patient clinics see around 100 a day. Leukemia is the most prevalent cancer in children below the age of 15 years. Out of all cancer patients in the age group of 0-14 years in Sri Lanka, 44% of males and 37.9% females are suffering from leukemia. There are approximately 150 patients warded at any one time at the Apeksha Hospital. One of the main difficulties that is being faced is the need for accommodation for paediatric patients as the treatment regime tends to be long and intermittent which doesn't allow them to go home and return for treatment due to financial constraints and the child being unwell in the majority of instances.

This project is providing not only accommodation but will initiate Sri Lanka's first Palliative Care Centre for children.

Indira Cancer Trust (ICT) has become a beacon of hope for cancer patients and their families in Sri Lanka. Initiated in 2016, following the tragic death caused by breast cancer of a 40 year old mother of two - Indira Jayasuriya, we are committed to supporting those that have been impacted by cancer. Our objectives at ICT are to support prevention, early detection, diagnosis, treatment and improving the quality of life for cancer patients. Over 20 different projects that support patients with all types of cancer are done by Indira Cancer Trust. All work is done in close collaboration with the Ministry of Health, Professional Colleges and the World Health Organization.

Sri Lanka Medical Association of North America Western Region (SLMANA West)

SLMANA WR

For over 17 years, the mission of SLMANA West has been to bring together professionals and students living in the United States and Canada for charitable and humanitarian purposes which shall include the prevention of diseases, care and treatment of the sick, injured, afflicted, infirm, disabled, or destitute persons.

This year ICT and SLMANA West are joining forces to build the first paediatric palliative care centre in Sri Lanka, Suwa Arana, 'A Place for Healing' - which will also provide housing for paediatric cancer patients and their families whilst undergoing treatment. This is made possible by the very generous donation from SLMANA West members in the USA, because of their humanitarian concern for lack of paediatric palliative care facilities in Sri Lanka.

A PLACE FOR HEALING

Suwa Arana - A place for healing, will be a care centre for paediatric cancer patients and their families unlike any other facility in Sri Lanka. This will be a centre for special end of life care for children, where the whole family can be together during this exceedingly difficult time. In addition to palliative care, Suwa Arana also offers housing for families that travel from all over the island to find treatment for their cancer-stricken children at the Apeksha Hospital, Maharagama. Suwa Arana is located walking distance from Apeksha Hospital and will provide room and board for the child and the family while treatment is in progress, which can take weeks or months, without the added burden of incurring the cost of accommodation and food.

The 6-floor building will have a reception, dining room with patio providing home cooked meals, play area, laundrette and a roof top garden where a range of activities will be conducted. Each floor allocated to patient care will have 8 family en suite rooms. There will also be a single floor dedicated to all the operations of Indira Cancer Trust so that walk-in patients, both adult and paediatric, can also be supported through the many other services offered by ICT.
